

BEL Careers and Employability

Work with our students

At UQ, we make industry-relevant learning a priority for our students – in the classroom and beyond.

BEL Careers and Employability provides the nexus for industry to contribute to our students' professional growth and learning, and to connect with your future talent pool.

Whether you would like to host a student on placement, provide them an insider's view on the latest industry trends and career pathways, or help them develop important professional and employability skills, we provide a range of tailored engagement opportunities for you to build your brand and work with our students.

“Over the past year, RACQ has partnered with BEL Careers and Employability to offer short-term work experiences to UQ students in various fields. This initiative provides students with valuable insights into the daily operations of our business, allowing them to gain hands-on experience in various tasks and responsibilities within their field, as well as an opportunity to network with professionals in our organisation. By investing in students' futures, RACQ helps them develop essential skills for career success. This mutually beneficial partnership brings a new perspective, enthusiasm, and innovative mindset to the RACQ team, fostering a dynamic learning environment for all and building a connection between RACQ and the next generation of professionals.”

Choose one or more of the following options to engage with Business, Economics and Law students.

 Build your brand	Building brand awareness among students helps secure your future talent pipeline. Engage our students in your own Industry Masterclass, by hosting them on a workplace visit or through participation in one of our career panels. We can also promote your online company presentation to your target student audience.
 Student Work Experience Program (SWEP)	Host an early to mid-year student for pre-professional, work-based learning in your organisation related to their discipline. Placements are for up to 30 days during the winter or summer break, or part-time during the semester. Students undergo a thorough recruitment process to qualify for a placement and are fully insured by UQ, if required. Learn more about SWEP.
 Work Integrated Learning (WIL)	WIL enables final-year students to put classroom theory into meaningful workplace practice by undertaking an industry placement (internship) for course credit. A WIL placement must consist of a minimum of 100 hours of degree-relevant, supervised work-based learning. Learn more about WIL or contact employability@bel.uq.edu.au for further information.
 Advertise your opportunity	UQ's online jobs portal, CareerHub, provides a simple and effective way for you to advertise your paid graduate and undergraduate roles, internships, volunteering or work experience opportunities to students and graduates. Create your free account.
 Become a mentor	Become a mentor and contribute to students' professional development while enhancing your own leadership, communication and coaching skills. As a mentor, you share your knowledge and experience with the next generation of talent, providing guidance and support while mentees develop their professional selves and navigate career pathways.
 Host a PhD placement	Designed in consultation with your organisation, UQ's 60-day PhD placement scheme provides Higher Degree by Research (HDR) students with the opportunity to work on a project-based experience in the commercial, not-for-profit or public sector.
